

Prof. Rado Pišot, PhD

Science and Research Centre, Koper, Slovenia · Institute for Kinesiology Research

- After graduation he continued his study at the Faculty of Sports in Ljubljana.
- His research achievements have been published in many internationally known journals.
- He has also written many scientific monographs, manuals and text books.
- He was one of the initiators of University of Primorska and the first dean of Faculty of Education in Koper
- He is the director of the public research institute – Science and Research Center of Koper

- He is the founding father of institute for Kinesiology research (IKARUS) which is operating within the Science and Research Centre of Koper (ZRS Koper) and has its laboratory at the Mediterranean Health Centre.

He is also a member of

- The research of Influence of Simulated Weightlessness on the Human Organism developed in a research programme Bedrest Valdoltra 2006, 2007, 2008, 2012, 2019 conducted in co-operation with several distinguished foreign researchers and institutions (Karolinska Institutet Stocholm, Manchester Metropolitan University, University of Trieste, University of Bari, University of Padua, University of Udine, etc.)
- He is also the writer of many article reviews published in internationally acknowledged journals.
- His works have been cited in Slovenia and abroad.